This file contains 91 items. The Hill Ratto Trust was a settlement made by Mrs M. J. Lloyd-Jones, JH's mother, in 1911, settling her share of her Father's estate, so that she had the income for life with the remainder to her children. The trustees of this were JH and Frank Ratto.

Included is a copy of the settlements, deeds of trustee appointments, and a 1925 statement and correspondence with solicitors concerning the share investments and financial transactions of this trust.

In 1949 Mr and Mrs Lloyd-Jones negotiated for the purchase of a cottage in Surrey but the deal fell through. Shares were sold in order to pay for this expected purchase and the funds were finally used in 1950 for the mortgage on 27 Montpelier Place in London. This was the property in which they already resided.

Frank Ratto resigned his trusteeship in 1952 and B.G. Lloyd-Jones took over. The trust then became known as the Hill Lloyd-Jones Trust and it remained dormant for 30 years as investments did not change.

JH/WAR/12	Royal Regiment of Artillery (Royal Artillery) 1995-2000

John Hill served in the Royal Artillery in World War II, rising to the rank of captain and seeing active service as an Air Observation Post (OP) pilot. The series contains transcripts of his personal journal of his military service, together with contemporary documents, maps, and published material, and some post-war material. The latter includes papers relating to old comrades' organisations, military museums and heritage centres, and miscellaneous publications and cuttings.

JH joined the 64th (7th London) Regiment, Royal Artillery [Territorials] on 1/9/39 and was initially based at Golders Green where he was occupied in registering and training new recruits. In 2/40 he relinquished his RA commission and was posted to the 5th (SR) Battalion Scots Guards, a ski battalion with whom he undertook training in Chamonix in anticipation of deployment to Finland. The Finnish campaign did not materialise and JH resumed his RA commission at the end of 3/40. From 9/40 to 1/41 he underwent gas warfare training at the Army Gas School, Tregmantle.

Towards the end of 1941 JH underwent flying training and qualified as an Air Observation Post pilot, joining 651 (AOP) Squadron, RAF, in 1/42. From 4/42-9/42 JH was based in the War Office (SD4 and AIR I).. On 1/11/42 he sailed for Algiers to participate in the Tunisian Campaign. On 22/4, en route by land to begin an attachment to One Division, JH was injured by shell-fire and evacuated to England where he was treated in the Military Hospital (Head Injuries) at St High's College, Oxford. He left hospital on 19/10/43 and was subsequently invalided out of the Army.

JH was at this time attending a course at the School of Artillery, Larkhill. By 12/41 Talbot-Smith had moved to GHQ Home Forces, where he was a staff officer but returned to the 64th by the following year. On 4/3/43 he writes from HQ RA 15th (Scottish) Division Home Forces, saying that "the Div. is going shortly to be very good involved" and reports that "the G.O.C. is Monty's protegee". By 22/6/43 he is commanding 495 Field Battery, Alnwick and has learned that JH has been injured and returned to England. Writing to JH at the Military Hospital (Head Injuries) at St Hugh's College, Oxford, Talbot-Smith reports that he is on the staff of the RA Branch, 21 Army Group HQ, and appears not to be very happy about it. By 28/9/43 he is more cheerful, being connected with "urgent affairs of strategy (on practically a Prime Ministerial level)". The last letter is dated 4/10/43. Talbot-Smith is still with 21 Army Group, now based at Wentworth Country Club and writes to JH at High Barn, Esher, referring to working at the level of the Prime Minister and Chief of the Imperial General Staff.
